Legion Elects, Ends Convention

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 4.—(UP)—The American Legion, its 35th annual convention completed, was pledged today to carry on campaigns for strong military forces, adoption of universal military training and "rooting out" subversives in government.

Pro-Eisenhower legionnaires managed to head off open criticism of the President's judgment in cutting the Air Force budget by more than $5,000,000,000.

Arthur J. Connell of Middletown, Conn., the newly-elected national commander, said in his acceptance speech Thursday that the legion is "determined our nation shall remain strong and alert in the face of the current Communist threat."

"There is no early prospect for reducing the defensive strength of our Armed Forces."

The new commander, who will receive a $15,000 salary plus a $25,000 contingent fund, also said that 1954 would be the "year of final decision" on UMT and said that the Congress must be made aware of legion support for the universal military training measure.

Drivers Warned By State Police

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 4.—(UP)—Hoosier motorists were warned today that traffic violations during the Labor Day weekend may land them in jail.

"Every effort will be exerted to stop speeders, drunken drivers, traffic lane weavers, and other violators before they kill themselves and others," state police Supt. Frank Jessup said.

Indiana counted 27 holiday fatalities last year.

"Lives could be saved if each driver pledged himself to drive carefully and courteously," Jessup added.

Claims Are Down

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 4.—(UP)—Claims for unemployment compensation are running about 20 per cent below a year ago, the Indiana employment security division reported Thursday.

Director William Stalnaker said there were 18,340 claims last week as compared to 19,934 and 23,050 during preceding weeks. He said layoffs are "somewhat higher, however, due to reduction of personnel in the refrigeration industry and layoffs in auto parts plants."

Woman Dies In Chair For Murder

MONTGOMERY, Ala. Sept. 4.—(UP)—Mrs. Earle Dennison, hollowcheeked former nurse, was electrocuted early today for poisoning her two-year-old niece with arsenic to collect $5,000 insurance.

The 55-year-old widow declared, "God has forgiven me for all I have done," then with apparent resignation but no sign of fear she became the first white woman to die in the Alabama electric chair.

She was pronounced dead at 12:12 a. m. CST, several hours after Gov. Gordon Persons denied her clemency with a statement that "there is no doubt in my mind of Mrs. Dennison's guilt, may God rest Mrs. Dennison's soul."

Mrs. Dennison earlier had lost a legal battle to prove herself insane after confessing she murdered Shirley Diann Weldon by giving her a drink of poisoned orange soda while visiting the Weldon farm home.

She was also indicted for murdering the child's sister, Polly Ann Weldon, in the same way two years before but was not brought to trial for this.

NO INCREASE AT PRESENT IN GAS CO. RATES

PSC DENIES PETITION OF COMPANY FOR BOOST IN RATES

Some 87,000 customers of Indiana Gas and Water Company, Inc., in 59 Hoosier cities and towns and 30 counties learned today that there will be no immediate increase in their gas rates.

The Indiana Public Service Commission, in a two-to-one decision, late yesterday denied the petition of the company for increased rates amounting to approximately a million dollars annually.

The majority decision denying the petition in its entirety. The lone Democratic commissioner, Wendell Tennis, cast a dissenting vote, representing the first time the Commission has given a divided decision since the three men have been serving together on the PSC.

In the majority decision, written by Belshaw, the PSC held that the two items of increased expense upon which the plea for a 10.94 percent rate increase was sought, had been overestimated by the utility.

Belshaw said that the Indiana Gas and Water Company had based its estimate of natural gas costs upon 100 per cent of what it could demand from its pipeline suppliers. However, the commission said that the utility never had used more than 90 per cent of this amount in 1952 and that a basis of 90 per cent was used by the PSC, rather than the 100 per cent figures of the utility.

The other item disputed was the rate of depreciation on property, which the utility sought to have set at 2.5 per cent since that rate is allowed to the company by the Internal Revenue Department. The majority ruling held that a rate of 2.2 per cent depreciation was sufficient.

The PSC opined that added revenues amounting to $955,656.16 over 1952 will "probably accrue to the petitioner in the year 1953" on the basis of its present rates. The utility has sought a rate increase of approximately that amount, claiming that since its last rate increase in 1949, payroll costs increased 58.58 per cent, taxes went up 93.66 per cent and cost of natural gas increased about 50 per cent.

Officials of the utility would not make an immediate statement as to whether they will appeal the denial to the courts, as was done in the case of the Indiana Bell Telephone Company. An Indiana Gas & Water company spokesman said the utility wished time to study the PSC ruling first.

Tennis, the dissenting commissioner, did not release a minority opinion on the gas case yesterday, but said he planned to do so later. He said he felt that the utility deserved "some increase" but declined to say how much.

Among the cities and towns affected by the decision are, Arcadia, Atlanta, Bedford, Bloomington, Cambridge City, Cicero, Cloverdale, Edinburg, Franklin, Greencastle, Greensburg, Knightstown, Lafayette, Linden, Knightstown, Noblesville, Tipton, West Lafayette.

Also affected are other incorporated areas in 30 counties, including: Boone, Decatur, Delaware, Hamilton, Hancock, Johnson, Monroe, Morgan, Putnam, Tippecanoe, Tipton, and Wayne.

CIO Plans Big Demonstration

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 4.—(UP)—CIO Officials today planned a "giant demonstration," probably within a week, to speed a settlement on the 45-day-old state-wide Indiana Bell Telephone Co. strike.

Union officials said the rally at Michigan City may attract 40,000 members.

"If Bell can bring in four people from the outside, we can bring in 4,000 or 40,000," one union leader said.

Richard Alabaugh, president of a South Bend local of the Communications Workers of America, said the demonstration will be staged because the union "is tired of evasion and delaying tactics" in the strike.

"It is time to take matters into our own hands," he added.

Another union spokesman said the rally "will show all organized labor is behind efforts of the CWA to rid Michigan City of scabs and strike breakers."

Negotiators met until nearly midnight Thursday, but no progress in bargaining was reported.

DEAN RELATES EXPERIENCES AS RED PRISONER

FACED THREAT OF PUNISHMENT AS A WAR CRIMINAL

FREEDOM VILLAGE, Korea, Sept. 4.—(UP)—Major Gen. William F. Dean returned to freedom today, and told how the Communists threatened him with punishment as a war criminal in futile efforts to pry military secrets from him.

Dean, back from 37 months as a prisoner of the Reds, gave newsmen a detailed account of the treatment—both bad and good—he received at the hands of his captors.

Now gray-haired, with wrinkles on a tanned face, Dean told of his capture on Aug. 25, 1950, of having wandered hungry through the countryside without food, of endless interrogation by North Koreans and of the surprisingly good treatment he received toward the end.

Starting from the beginning, Dean recalled his battle against hopeless odds after being separated from the men with whom he had been fighting.

A North Korean soldier tried to overpower him alone but failed.

"I thought I was a pretty good wrestler," he said. "But before I could get my arm released about 20 people were on me. They were North Korean soldiers or homeguards."

"They wrenched my arms behind my back, tied me up and put me in the hoosegow, and then into a box about the size of this table."

He pointed to a table about three feet square.

Dean said his feet were swollen and he took off his boots.

"That gave them the idea, so they took them and gave me some rubber shoes without bottoms. I had to stuff in newspapers. It was a long time before I could find any shoes big enough for me."

Before he was taken into Communist custody, Dean said, he spent a month in a jeep trying to hide from the Reds.

"The jeep had to pass through a fiery lane where trucks were burning and vehicles had been wrecked," he said. "The driver took a wrong turn. Instead of Yomong he went to Namsen."

"North Koreans were dug in all along the road, firing at us."

Dean said he jumped from the jeep and took cover under an abandoned truck. Several other men already had had the same idea, he said.

"The men under the truck with me wanted to surrender, but I talked them out of it," Dean said.

The general said he and the men later slipped away from the truck and hid in an armored weapons carrier, known as an M-5.

"When the order came to take cover there were 17 of us in the group," he said. "We left the M-5 and began to move up over a mountain."

Dean said he thought he heard a trickle of water. He hadn't had a drink all day, he said, so he looked around in the hope of finding the stream.

"I had an impression of running water."

Dean, back from 37 months as a prisoner of the Reds, gave newsmen a detailed account of the treatment—both bad and good—he received at the hands of his captors.

Now gray-haired, with wrinkles on a tanned face, Dean told of his capture on Aug. 25, 1950, of having wandered hungry through the countryside without food, of endless interrogation by North Koreans and of the surprisingly good treatment he received toward the end.

Starting from the beginning, Dean recalled his battle against hopeless odds after being separated from the men with whom he had been fighting.

A North Korean soldier tried to overpower him alone but failed.

"I thought I was a pretty good wrestler," he said. "But before I could get my arm released about 20 people were on me. They were North Korean soldiers or homeguards."

"They wrenched my arms behind my back, tied me up and put me in the hoosegow, and then into a box about the size of this table."

He pointed to a table about three feet square.

Dean said his feet were swollen and he took off his boots.

"That gave them the idea, so they took them and gave me some rubber shoes without bottoms. I had to stuff in newspapers. It was a long time before I could find any shoes big enough for me."

Before he was taken into Communist custody, Dean said, he spent a month in a jeep trying to hide from the Reds.

"The jeep had to pass through a fiery lane where trucks were burning and vehicles had been wrecked," he said. "The driver took a wrong turn. Instead of Yomong he went to Namsen."

"North Koreans were dug in all along the road, firing at us."

Dean said he jumped from the jeep and took cover under an abandoned truck. Several other men already had had the same idea, he said.

"The men under the truck with me wanted to surrender, but I talked them out of it," Dean said.

The general said he and the men later slipped away from the truck and hid in an armored weapons carrier, known as an M-5.

"When the order came to take cover there were 17 of us in the group," he said. "We left the M-5 and began to move up over a mountain."

Dean said he thought he heard a trickle of water. He hadn't had a drink all day, he said, so he looked around in the hope of finding the stream.

"I had an impression of running water."

DEAN RELATES EXPERIENCES AS RED PRISONER

FREEDOM VILLAGE, Korea, Sept. 4.—(UP)—Major Gen. William F. Dean returned to freedom today, and told how the Communists threatened him with punishment as a war criminal in futile efforts to pry military secrets from him.

Dean, back from 37 months as a prisoner of the Reds, gave newsmen a detailed account of the treatment—both bad and good—he received at the hands of his captors.

Now gray-haired, with wrinkles on a tanned face, Dean told of his capture on Aug. 25, 1950, of having wandered hungry through the countryside without food, of endless interrogation by North Koreans and of the surprisingly good treatment he received toward the end.

450 Ailing Gls Returning Home

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 4.—(UP)—More than 450 ailing servicemen, 105 of them former prisoners of war, crowded the rails of the hospital ship Haven today, eagerly awaiting the moment when they would land once more in the United States.

The Haven, bearing the ex-prisoners, and 365 rotation hospital cases, slipped through the Golden Gate late Thursday night and anchored off Treasure Island in San Francisco Bay. She was scheduled to dock at Fort Mason in San Francisco at 10:45 a. m. EDT.

At Fort Mason, the Haven was to discharge the Army and Air Force men aboard, then cross the bay to Alameda Naval Air Station to discharge Navy and Marine personnel.

Of the 105 ailing, ex-POWs, 90 were Army personnel, three were Air Force men, two were Marines and one was a Navy man.

Another 367 released prisoners are due Saturday afternoon aboard the Navy transport, Marine Adder. Also aboard are 1,475 other military personnel coming home on rotation.

Social Security Higher Jan. 1st

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (UP)—The taxpayer public is in line for income tax cuts averaging 10 percent Jan. 1, but many lower income families will find the reduction wiped out by increased Social Security payments which go into effect at the same time.

For such persons, deductions from weekly pay envelopes will actually be greater—not smaller than they are now. However, the extra money will go into Social Security reserves, not taxes, and the wage-earner will get it back when he retires.

The Social Security deduction for old age and survivors insurance will rise Jan. 1, to 2 percent instead of the present 1½ percent. It applies to the first $3,600 of a person's wage or salary. The employer makes an equal contribution to the insurance fund, and this payroll tax also will rise to 2 percent on Jan. 1.

President Eisenhower would have postponed the increase in Social Security levies. Congressmen were cool to the proposal, however, and the administration never pressed the matter.

Woman Now In British Cabinet

LONDON, Sept. 4.—(UP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill raised a woman a full cabinet rank today and abolished his system of ministerial overlordships in a minor cabinet shakeup.

Mrs. Florence Horsbrugh, minister of education, was promoted to full membership in the 19-member cabinet.

Lord Leathers, secretary for coordination of transport, fuel and power industries and one of two cabinet "overlords," resigned. The second overlord, Lord Woolton, assigned to coordinate food and agriculture policy, became minister of materials.

Woolton also is chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster, a sinecure portfolio whose holder usually carries out various duties.

The cabinet changes, especially the abolition of the coordinator posts, resulted largely from the denationalization of industries which the Churchill Conservative government has carried out, and the abolition of the controls that continued after the end of the war.

Tulsa Hit By Small Tornado

TULSA, Okla. Sept. 4.—(UP)—A small tornado struck a Tulsa residential district Thursday uprooting trees and damaging roofs. There were no injuries.

The storm hit the 1500 block of North Columbia Street about 1:30 P. M. CST. Fred Smith said he saw the black funnel approaching.

"All sorts of things were flying through the air, garbage cans and shingles and tree limbs, but it didn't last long," she said.

U. S. weather observer William O. Garrison confirmed the storm was a tornado. Police said early reports indicated damage was light.

Meat Will Cost More Next Year

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4. (UP)—The Agriculture Department today indicated that housewives will pay more for meat next year because of smaller supplies.

The department noted that hog producers have not stepped up production despite favorable feed prices. And it said cattlemen seemed to be repeating their post World War II "let-down"—when they "retrenched sharply, sometimes selling cattle to their later regret."

The department told farmers there was no reason to be discouraged by present abundant supplies and low prices for meat on the hoof.

"Only in case of a serious business decline and weaker consumer demand—not now in view—would prices a year hence repeat this year's down-trend for cattle or fail to be above average for hogs," the department said.

Tropical Storm Churns Atlantic

MIAMI, Fla. Sept. 4.—(UP)—The year's worst tropical storm in the Atlantic churned across shipping lanes far at sea with winds of 150 miles per hour today and appeared likely to become even more violent.

The giant hurricane, still "young" despite its fury, was growing in size as it headed on a west-northwestly course at 18 to 20 miles per hour.

This direction swung it clear of the leeward islands it had once threatened in the British West Indies and no ships were known to be in its path. No land areas were believed to be in any immediate danger.

They said a special room for the trial has been prepared in police headquarters.

Charges against Mossadegh said he disobeyed an order of the Shah, disobeyed parliament unconstitutionally and announced a plebiscite without constitutional justification.

The newspaper Atesh said Mossadegh will be transferred to a special prison before going on trial.

Police said the search for Mossadegh's right-hand man in the backfiring plot against the Shah, former Foreign Minister Hussein Fatemi, was continuing but that no trace of him had been found.

Water Rate Probe At South Whitley

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 4 (UP)—The Indiana Public Service Commission disclosed today it is investigating "excessive rates" charged by the South Whitley Municipal Water Works.

The PSC said the firm is charging higher rates without filing a petition and getting its approval.

According to PSC records, the last rate schedule was approved for the town's water works on May 8, 1950, at a rate of $4 for the first 20,000 gallons.

Now the PSC said, customers are charged $7.10 per 20,000 gallons.

The PSC said commissioner Wendell Tennis asked the utility last year to make refunds, and that Tennis asked a law firm headed by former Gov. Ralph F.

Gates at Columbia City to investigate.

However, the PSC said the case never was cleared up.

LOOKING... ...AT LIFE

BY ERICH BRANDEIS

If by some remote chance any of you folks happened to be related to the James Gibson clan of Sutton, Surrey, England, you will be glad to know that every past member of the family is in his or her grave, properly accounted for.

The Rev. R. W. Dale has just opened and closed again the massive door of the Gibson tomb and certified that every Gibson buried there is still present and has not strayed from the fold.

When James Gibson, a wealthy London merchant, died 176 years ago, he left a sum of money in trust for the annual maintenance and inspection of his tomb as insurance against any post-mortem gallivanting of any of his heirs and descendants.

Even in those days there were black sheep in almost every family and James Gibson did not want to take any chances on the Gibson family getting a bad name.

He specified in his will that every year the rector of the village church should open the family tomb make sure that everything was all right, and so certify. This has been done since 1778, the first year after James died and thus all the paragraphs and codicils of his will are still obeyed.

It seems to me that all too many people pay entirely too much attention to what happens after their demise.

Almost daily you hear of wills that are pages and pages long and make a number of almost unfulfillable provisions.

Thus long litigation ensues, and by the time the testator's estate is distributed, the only people who really benefit are the lawyers.

It reminds me just a little of a law just passed in Victoria, B. C., which provides that hunters may no longer hunt ducks with cannons.

An old Canadian law made it legal to use "gun, cannon, pistol, rifle, revolver or fowling piece." But that is no longer allowed. Hereafter, only shotguns may be used.

I don't think it makes much difference to a duck whether he is killed with a shotgun or with cannon, pistol, rifle, revolver or fowling piece. A dead duck is a dead duck.

By the same token, I don't see where it should make so much difference to a human being how his money is disposed of after he is dead and buried as long as his family is provided for.

If the wrong people get it in the first place, another set of "wrong people" will get it away from them. And the same set of lawyers will serve both for a reasonable fee.

Everybody should make a will, if course. That is no less reasonable than that everybody should have a life insurance policy, on himself or a life insurance policy on his home and his automobile.

I think if I were a wealthy man—and not being one, I am doing it anyway—I would leave everything unconditionally to my wife.

A lot of men think that their wives don't know how to handle money. Well, if they didn't, I bet you that a whole lot of rich men wouldn't have nearly so much to leave to their wives, if those same wives hadn't known pretty darn well how to handle money.

Just make a survey some time on how many men started without a nickel and never saved a cent until they got married. For every "foolish virgin" you are apt to find a hundred wise ones.

—GENERAL DEAN

ring down a series of steps," he said. "I drew a blank. It was like a man being drunk."

Dean said he apparently fainted.

"When I came to, my watch read after midnight," he said. "I was at the bottom of a hill. I got up and started across the stream and I fell asleep. When I came to again, it was about daylight and a North Korean patrol passed me 10 yards away. They did not see me."

"After that, until the time I was captured, it was just an attempt to work south."

Following his capture, Dean said, he was taken from town to town and from house to house.

Dean said the Communists held him at Manpo until Jan. 12, 1951, and then took him back to the North Korean capital of Pyongyang, where he remained until Feb. 6, 1953.

He said he reached Kaesong on Aug. 6.

Muzzy, As Usual, Misses His Chance

Before giving up on a hand where the defenders ruinously shorten your trump suit by forcing you to ruff, it is always wise to consider the gimmick known as reversing the dummy.

South dealer
Both sides vulnerable

number of trumps on the board. Eventually, you plan to use dummy's trumps to do the major part of the job of picking up the trumps held by the enemy.

In today's deal Mr. Muzzy got into the reasonable final contract of five diamonds and Mr. Dale led the king of hearts. Mr. Muzzy ruffed and it appeared to him that he was in a very fine spot. All he had to lose was a couple of club tricks.

He took three quick round of trumps, then led the ace and another club. Mr. Dale won the second club with the queen and returned a high heart. Mr. Muzzy ruffed again and was somewhat surprised to note that this took his last trump.

If he had led another club at this point, Mr. Dale could cash all of his remaining hearts. Sadly, Mr. Muzzy played his four good spades but had to concede the last two tricks for down one.

Of course he should have foreseen this result and handled the play differently from the start. He could have made the hand easily as follows:

At trick two lead the ace of clubs and then a small club. Mr. Dale would win and return a heart. Ruff this and lead a third club. Again Mr. Dale would win and would have no better return than a heart. Ruff for the third time.

Now lead the king of diamonds and follow with your last diamond, the queen. Overtake in dummy with the ace. Cash the eight of diamonds, picking up the last outstanding trump. The good.

U. S. OFFICIAL DIES
WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (UP)—Dr. Lee M. Thurston, U. S. commissioner of education, died of a heart attack early today at Georgetown University hospital.

Thurston, 58, had served in his post since July 2. He was taken to the hospital in a critical condition Sunday.

Thurston was superintendent of public instruction for the state of Michigan before his appointment as education chief in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

His wife, Mrs. Jessie Gothro Thurston and a close friend, Mrs. L. A. Tappe of Ann Arbor, Mich., were at his side when he died. Thurston is survived by a son and a daughter in addition to his wife.

CELEBRATES RELEASE
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 4 (UP)—Former Sgt. Robert W. Toth today celebrated his release from Air Force custody on charges of murdering a South Korean civilian.

Toth was released on $1,000 bond Thursday and returned to his Pittsburgh home to the cheers of 400 friends and neighbors who had roped off the street for his homecoming.

There was dancing in the street in front of his home and balloons and lanterns swayed overhead. An Irish string orchestra and a three-piece dance band played for the homecoming celebration.

The 21-year old steelworker was ordered released Thursday by Federal Judge Alexander Holtzoff. The Air Force said the ruling would be appealed.

Toth was arrested by military police in Pittsburgh last May and flown to Korea for trial in connection with the killing of a South Korean who was trespassing in a restricted area.

TWO CONFERENCES
DENVER, Sept. 4 (UP)—President Eisenhower scheduled two conferences at his summer White House offices at Lowry Air Force Base today as he continued the routine of his half-work, half-play Colorado vacation.

The President was to meet with Gen. Joseph T. McNarney of San Diego, Calif., head of the Consolidated Aircraft Corp., at 9 a. m. WST, noon EDT and confer an hour later with Gen. Eugene D. Milliken, R-Colo.

BACON FRY
DUNBAR, W. Va., (UP)—Firemen here drooled while putting out a slaughterhouse fire, smelling the aroma of 1,500 pounds of frying bacon.

WHAT ROOM?
BOSTON, (UP)—Sign over a

Dock Square bar: "Please don't stand up while room is in motion."

BAKED SPUDS
ST. JOHN Kan. (UP)—During a heat wave straw was used by Mryl Ashworth to mulch a patch of Potatoes, which were almost on top of the ground. The dry straw caught fire. The whole patch was baked.

A newspaper survey covering 1,724 physicians revealed that 1,700 of them believe women should not wear shoes without stockings. Much of the increase in serious foot trouble among women, the doctors said, is due to the practice of going without stockings in summer.

Grandpappy Jenkins is "convinced he can't win. The lawn he mowed so carefully all summer is now completely hidden by leaves."

Miami Beach, Fla., will stage on the seashore. That should please King Neptune.

Sitting Bull, we read, published his autobiography in the 1880s although he was unable to either read or write. The old Indian chief was apparently not only a medicine man but a first class magician, too.

"Slack Season Here"—headline. What do they mean—business or beach-wear?

Looks like the Yanks and Dodgers, again. Good grief, doesn't New York's copyright on the World Series ever run out?

Our favorite towns, East Bicycle and Sauerkraut Center, claim a unique distinction. Up to press time they are the only two places not mentioned as sites for the transfer of the St. Louis Browns franchise.
